

COVID-19: ILAG actions

Current situation (as at 13 March)

As the effects, actual and projected, of COVID-19 become evident, we are aware that our members face restrictions on travel and limitations on the size of public gatherings they are able to attend.

As of Monday 16 March, all ILAG group meetings, originally intended to be face-to-face, will take place by teleconference.

The situation will be reviewed regularly, and face-to-face meetings will be reinstated as soon as is practicable.

Postponed Events

In line with Government guidelines and advice from public health authorities, we have postponed the following events:

- 12 March – Learning & Development roundtable
- 18 March – Group Chairs' roundtable
- 19 March – Financial Crime Seminar
- 25 March – Cyber Security Seminar
- 31 March – IFRS 17 Seminar

Attendees for these sessions have been contacted and informed of the situation.

All events scheduled to take place between April and July are under review and we will provide further updates as and when available.

ILAG internal operations

The ILAG Management Team operates within a virtual office environment and continues to do so.

The Team has reviewed its commitments during March and April and has agreed to limit its interactions so that only two members of the team are together at any time.

We are currently investigating online solutions to ensure that the break in our event programme is minimal.

Questions from the membership

If you have any questions or concerns about ILAG's activity in relation to COVID-19, please contact Jo Stickland.
